LONDON, Sept. 22.

OUr Letters from the Rhine are of the 23d, N. S. and adviſe, that ſince the Return of the Meſſenger who was ſent to Vienna, with the different Sentiments of the laſt Council of War, the Imperial Army was entirely in Motion. The main Body was advanc'd towards Willock near Philipsburg, where the Ruſſians had join'd them, and a Corps, to the Number of 25 or 30,000 Men, had been detach'd to reinforce Count Konigſegg on the other ſide the River. 'Tis univerſally believ'd, that Prince Eugene has receiv'd peremptory Orders from the Emperor to penetrate on any Terms, into the Electorate of Treves, and upon the Moſelle, in order to gain Winter Quarters there, at the Enemy's Expence; and as the French have an Army on that ſide, ready to oppoſe ſuch Attempts, 'tis not wholly without Probability but there yet may be an Action.

The French having forag'd from Hays ſucceſſively, and carried off every thing from the Neighbourhood of Eppenheim, were to remove the 25th, and encamp a ſhort time at Durhem, before they enter'd their Lines at the Spirebach; but the Execution of this Deſign depended upon the Motions of the Imperialiſts. 'Tis certain, the Return of the Princes of the Blood to Paris is ſuſpended by Order of the King.

The Imperialiſts are rallied in the Mountains of the Tyrol, to the Number of 30,000 Men, and ſeem determin'd to defend the Paſſes againſt all Attempts of the Allies. The Return of Count Konigſegg to the Army being no more talk'd of, all Thoughts of relieving Mantua ſeem abandon'd. 'Tis ſaid, that the Funds ſet apart for the Affairs of Italy are a good deal exhauſted.

The Imperialiſts have ſuſtain'd another great Loſs by the Vigilance of the Allied Army, which has diſcover'd a Magazine of no leſs that 12000 Sacks of Meal, and 3000 Load of Hay which were purchas'd and laid up in the Territories of Venice, and deſign'd for Count Konigſegg's Uſe, when he return'd into Italy.

Some Accounts ſay, that the Duke de Montemar was to open Trenches before Mantua as the 1ſt of October; and others, that he would be oblig'd to defer it till even the middle of the Month. He has order'd a Line of Circumvallation to be drawn round that part of the City which communicates with the Seraglio.

The Capitulation obtain'd by the Imperial Garriſon in Mirandola, contain'd more honourable Terms than was believ'd poſſible for them to obtain; as that the Officers ſhould preſerve their Arms and Equipages, and go where they pleas'd upon their Parole; that the Soldiers ſhould have none of their Cloaths or Effects taken from them; that the Sick and Wounded ſhould have all poſſible Care taken of them, and that the Town ſhould retain its Privileges and Form of Government.

Letters are arriv'd in Town from Spain, with an Account, that the Florilla, which was oblig'd to put back laſt year into the Havannah by a violent Tempeſt, are now ſafe arriv'd at Cadiz, laden to the amount of near two Millions Sterling, upwards of 700,000 l. being for the King of Spain's own Uſe, the reſt belongs to the Spaniſh, Engliſh, Dutch and French Merchants. The Share belonging to our Merchants is very conſiderable.

Letters from Peterſburg mention, that his Excellency Mr. Rondeau, his Majeſty's Miniſter at Peterſburg, being juſt Mealy ſent to the Imperial Gardens, where Part of the Guards were performing their Exercises in her Czarian Majeſty's Preſence, his Excellency, in Company with the Engliſh, Pruſſian, and Dutch Miniſters, croſſing a little Bridge, the ſame broke down, and their Excellencies fell into the Water, together with about 20 Officers who were attending them: Several Boats being at Hand to take them up, there was no Miſchief done but to their fine Cloaths; they had all din'd the ſame Day at the Imperial Miniſter's, who gave an Entertainment on occaſion of its being the Empreſs-Conſort's Birth Day.

The Hague, Oct. 7. N. S.

We cannot find any thing ſettled as yet in the different Meaſures employ'd for obtaining a Pacification in Europe; 'tis extremely difficult to hit upon a Project that will pleaſe every Party: In the mean time the Maritime Powers omit nothing that can contribute to ſo glorious an end, and ſeem determin'd to try every Syſtem, in hopes ſome one may ſucceed: It appears to this end, that the Deputies of the States-General have lately communicated to the Miniſters of the Allied Powers, a Reſolution which their High Mightineſſes took in their Aſſembly of the 27th paſt, by way of Inſtruction, for their Miniſters reſiding at the Courts of Paris and Madrid. This Reſolution is ſaid to be to the following Effect: Their High Mightineſſes recommend to Meſſ. Vanhoey and Vander Meer, to redouble, in concert with the Miniſters of his Britannick Majeſty, their Inſtances to the Kings of France and Spain, for engaging them to lend a hand in reſtoring the Peace and Tranquility of Europe, particularly with regard to Poland, and the rather, as his Britannick Majeſty and their High Mightineſſes have room to flatter themſelves, that the Parties intereſted in that Affair, are ready to contribute all that lies in their Power to bring this important matter to a ſpeedy Concluſion; that his Britannick Majeſty and their High Mightineſſes cannot but approve, that the Empreſs of Ruſſia be conſider'd in the Negociations for Peace, with relation to the Buſineſs of Poland as principal contracting Party, this Princeſs being by no means leſs intereſted in it than the other Powers at variance; and that his Britannick Majeſty and their High Mightineſſes ſhould look with Pleaſure upon any reaſonable Expedient that ſhall be found out, for the Admiſſion of his Electoral Highneſs of Saxony in the enſuing Congreſs as King of Poland, and for taking away the Obſtacles which have hitherto impeded it.

This Reſolution, as it is call'd, has made a great Noiſe here, and the common Inferences drawn from it are, that their High Mightineſſes, who ſeem to have an undoubted good Underſtanding with France, would never have undertaken to propoſe two Points of this high Nature, had they not known before-hand that they would go down, and that that the Pretenſions of King Staniſlaus were agreed to be abandon'd. And thus People reckon, that one Stumbling Block is remov'd out of the way of the Peace-Makers; but others cannot help ſuſpecting, that whatever Condeſcen tions France may ſeem to yield, they are only deſign'd to amuſe, and to further Grand Views in getting the Neutrality of the Republick renew'd for another Term, whilſt her real Intentions continue pointed towards her firſt Object, that of ſetting King Staniſlaus on the Poliſh Throne, after having feebled the Emperor, by draining away his Vitals in an inactive but expenſive War, and in lingering Negociations.
